

POIGNANT

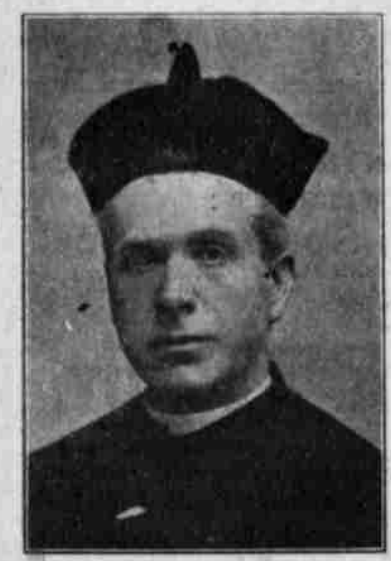

Was Grief of Catholics Over the Death of Father Andrew J. Brady.

St. Cecilia's Church Stands a Monument to His Zeal.

Funeral One of the Most Impressive Seen Here For Many Years.

PRIEST WHOM ALL PEOPLE LOVED

The announcement of the death of the Rev. Andrew J. Brady, the venerable pastor of St. Cecilia's church on Twenty-fifth street, which took place Monday morning at the parish rectory, caused wide and poignant grief through the city of Louisville and State of Kentucky. Upon all sides were heard expressions of sincere sorrow, for Father Brady was widely known and greatly beloved. Father Brady was a member of a highly esteemed County Cavan family and was a native of Ireland. He received his early education at the Christian Brothers' school in his native town and distinguished himself among his class fellows by carrying off many prizes. Subsequently he entered the famous All Hallows' College in the city of Dublin to prepare for the sacred office to which he was called. Here he added to his scholarly attainments, and while yet exceedingly young he was ordained to the holy priesthood. Coming to the United States soon after his ordination he was sent to Kentucky, and here he has labored for over forty years. For a number of years the energetic young priest was on the mission among the widely scattered Catholics of the country districts, but ever patient and prayerful, he submitted to every hardship and went courageously forward, each succeeding year bearing testimony to his ability. For a number of years Father Brady was stationed at Danville, and before coming to Louisville he erected three churches, one at Lebanon and one at Harrodsburg. Nineteen years ago he succeeded the late Father Macklin as pastor of St. Cecilia's church, a position for which his talents, coupled with his amiability of character, eminently fitted him. Under his direction St. Cecilia's has forced itself into the front rank of the city parishes.

By his people Father Brady was regarded more as friend than as superior. His teaching was conveyed by example. Deeply pious and at the same time studious, he made a lasting impression on every member of his congregation and by all was devotedly loved. Naturally of a retiring and unobtrusive nature, Father Brady did not take much part in public movements, devoting himself almost entirely to the interests of the congregation over which he had been placed in charge, and to which he leaves as his monument the magnificent new St. Cecilia's church, free from debt and practically ready for consecration. Father Brady had been ill for two weeks with pneumonia, but his condition was not considered alarming until Friday, when complications set in and he began to sink. Notwithstanding the constant attention of Rev. Father Cronin and his brother priests and unremitting medical assistance his condition did not improve materially, and Monday morning, fortified by the last rites of the church, he went courageously before the Master he served so loyally, there to receive the reward for which he had wrought in life. The Rev. Father Hugh Brady, a first cousin of the dead priest, who is chaplain of St. Joseph's infirmary, is the only relative living in Louisville. For three days and nights the remains lay in state in the church, where they were viewed by thousands.

The funeral was held Thursday morning, Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue presiding and nearly a hundred priests assisting at the solemn ceremonies. At 9 o'clock the office for the dead was chanted by the assembled priests, and half an hour later the solemn high mass of requiem was begun with the Rev. James P. Cronin, V. G., as celebrant. The office was thronged, hundreds being unable to gain admittance. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Thomas White, of St. Francis of Rome in Clifton, who paid eloquent and feeling tribute to his lifelong friend and brother priest. The last prayers were recited by Bishop O'Donoghue.

The funeral cortege was one of the longest seen here for years, and was representative of all classes of the people of Louisville. The active pallbearers were John McQuinn, Daniel Tompkins, William Kerber, John Lynn, John Keep, George Recktenwald, Charles Ralby and George J. Butler. The honorary pallbearers were John J. Dignan, James G. Shelly, Thomas Hayden, Charles Jacques, Peter Tervin, Nicholas Warless, Irvington Earl, P. Bannon, Jr., Barney Campbell, Sr., Thomas F. Henley, William G. Hume, August Weber, Thomas Dolan. Accompanying the remains to their resting place in St. Louis cemetery were the Altar Society, Young Ladies' Sodality, Mackin Council, St. Vincent de Paul Society, St. Cecilia's church choir, St. Joseph's Sodality and several hundred children in special street cars.

"WATCHED."

Railroad Friends Give Capt. Jack Murphy Great Surprise.

Capt. John B. Murphy, President of the Jeffersonville Board of Metropolitan Police Commissioners and general yardmaster for the Louisville division of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railway in Louisville, Jeffersonville and New Albany, was presented New Year's day with a handsome gold watch by the men from the three cities employed under him. The presentation speech was made by John M. O'Farrell, yardmaster in Louisville, and the ceremony was at Capt. Murphy's "shanty" in this city. A large number of the employees gathered there and surprised Capt. Murphy, who responded to the speech made by Mr. O'Farrell. Alton H. Parker, Jeffersonville yardmaster, also made a brief talk. The committee named to purchase the gift was A. H. Parker, W. L. Lloyd and H. L. Ryan. Capt. Murphy was proud of the gift, not so much on account of the intrinsic worth of the token, but more especially because it came from men he has seen grow up under him in the hazardous business. Capt. Murphy was born June 29, 1852. He became identified with the Pennsylvania December 2, 1872, as a night switchman in Louisville. In 1879 he was made yardmaster in Jeffersonville, sent to the Tenth-street yards, Louisville, two years later, and a few months afterward transferred back to Jeffersonville, where he remained until promoted to general yardmaster in July, 1891. He has had a continuous service with the Pennsylvania lines for forty years and one month. His home has been in Jeffersonville all of this time. He is a widely known Democrat and has served in the City Council several terms. Capt. Murphy is also prominent as a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Catholic Knights of America, Knights of Columbus, Knights and Ladies and the parish societies of St. Augustine's church.

THROGGED

Were Catholic Churches at New Year's Day Services.

Last Wednesday was New Year's day and the Feast of the Circumcision, and was solemnly observed in the Catholic churches throughout the city as a holy day of obligation. The services were the same as on Sunday and at the early masses the churches were thronged with people who offered prayers for the continuation of God's blessing upon the city. State and nation. Tuesday evening in nearly all the churches solemn thanksgiving services for all the blessings and benefits of the year were held. These services were also largely attended, and besides solemn vespers and benediction of the most blessed sacrament included special sermons and thanksgiving prayers for the graces and blessings of 1912. At the masses New Year's day the musical programmes were the same as those rendered at the Christmas services. The Catholic clergy have just cause to feel elated over the religious spirit exhibited by their flocks at the beginning of the new year.

PATROLMAN SUFFERING.

Officer James Savage, a well known member of the local police department, is confined to his home, 237 East Main street, suffering from the effects of the bite of a cocaine-crazed negro whom he arrested last October. Though the negro sank his teeth deep into his leg, Officer Savage continued on his beat until a short time ago, when it was thought he was threatened with blood poisoning. Fortunately his case is not that serious, though it may be several weeks before he will be able to return to the force.

HOME-COMING.

Next Tuesday night at Falls City Hall Division 1, A. O. H., will install its officers. In addition there will be a home-coming celebration by the present and former members, to which a general invitation is extended. There will be an interesting programme of exercises and a smoker, and doubtless there will be a large and pleasant reunion of those who have been identified with this grand old society.

CONFIDENT

That Long Delayed Home Rule Bill Will Pass Next Month.

Intelligent Review of the Political Situation as It Now Stands.

Unionist Party Never More Disunited Than It Is at Present.

GOVERNMENT GAINS STRENGTH

The Dundalk Democrat, in an intelligent and conservative review of the political situation as it relates to the present Government and legislation for Ireland, says that on resuming on December 30 the motion for allotting time for the report stage of the home rule bill will be taken and that measure pushed rapidly forward to a conclusion. It is the intention of the Government to push on rapidly and complete the whole of its legislative programme for the session. It is the hope of the Government to conclude the session in the month of February. So far as one can see there is no reason why this work, heavy as it is, should not be done. If there were a strong, vigorous and united Unionist party fighting tooth and nail against the Government it might be possible to so delay matters as to make it necessary to drop the franchise bill, the third of the great measures to which the Government has pledged itself, but the Unionist party was apparently never more disunited than it is at present. The organs of the party in the press are at sixes and sevens. Under the prudent guidance of Balfour the party dangled a nebulous thing called tariff reform, which nobody pretended to understand, before the eyes of the electorate, and told them that this was a cure for all England's industrial ills and the means of bringing about the greatest measure of national prosperity. But four knew very well that if tariff reform is not to include a tax on corn it would be of no use to the agricultural interest in England, which is Tory, and that if it does include a tax on corn it will be taxing the food of the people, and the English workingman would not stand such a proposal for twenty-four hours. England would see the bread riots repeated, and the party that would bring in a bread tax proposition would go out of office, probably amidst the smoke of half a dozen burning cities. John Bull will stand a lot, but he knows what dear bread meant in the past, and he will have no more of it. The extreme tariff reformers in the Tory party some months ago, tired of what they called the lackadaisical policy of Balfour, started a conspiracy to depose him. But Balfour, according to some accounts, was not unwilling to be deposed; at all events the present Tory leader, Bonar Law, came in instead. Now Bonar Law may have many virtues as a business man and a politician, but prudence, foresight and discretion do not appear to be prominent among them. His known policy is a policy of Balfour, started a conspiracy to depose him.
